

Education is a human right because it enables people to improve their economic, political and social situation themselves. Every child has the right to a school education and every human being has the right to satisfy his or her further learning needs for life! Education is one, if not the key for a sustainable development and therefore a focal point of the work of APPLICATIO .

APPLICATIO supports education in many ways and is involved in numerous projects worldwide. The focus is on vocational and tertiary education as well as lifelong non-formal adult education and digital learning.
